

This is a simple book to help high school students with opportunities they might not know about like: High School Equivalency/ Proficiency Test United World Colleges College Prep School Offering the International Baccalaureate High School Career Academies/ Career High Schools The General Equivalency Diploma Test/ GED College Credit While in High School High Schools at Universities College Prep High Schools Summer Camp at College High School Student Summer Programs not Necessarily at a College High School Student Tours High School Student Exchange Programs Gay High School Internships for High School Students Online High School Generally, there are several ways to get a high school diploma: Going to school regularly during the day. Going to school at night then taking a GED test. Taking mail order/ internet high school courses. Studying on your own and taking the GED test. Take a high school equivalency test through a high school or local board of education and pass it. These are offered at some online high schools. Proving to college administrators that you have life experience and skills learned at work via taking tests which give you credits for college. As an adult, you can possibly enroll in high school with normal students, take night classes, correspondence courses at home or simply study on your own and take the GED tests. Check with the Continuing Education Office of your local Department of Education. A little known way to get your high school diploma is through the National External Diploma Program which doesn't involve any direct instruction, rather, you meet with an assessor perhaps once a week for several weeks and go through a list of 65 competencies that you have to prove you can do like measure a room for carpeting, figure out the amount of carpet needed and compute the cost. If you miss a competency, he shows you how to do it, you come back the next week and try it again. You must take a pretest before being allowed into the program. Fourteen states and D.C. now offer this program. External Diploma Program 1 Dupont Cir. #250 Washington, DC 20036-1193 202-939-9475 casas.org/nedp There are a number of organizations that offer correspondence/ distance study whereby you can take high school courses at home, take the tests at home and if you pass, you get your diploma. For a list of places that offer these programs, contact; Distance Education Training Council 1601 18th St. Nw Washington, DC 20009 202-234-5100 Fax: 202-332-1386 detc@detc.org detc.org Booklet Directory of Accredited Institutions lists 70+ home study institutions. If you want options on internships and alternative schooling, get the book The Teenagers Guide to School Outside the Box by Rebecca Greene and Free Spirit Publishing, freespirit.com or amazon.com. Books about high school education are at #373-74 at the library. High school sophomores and juniors can generally take summer classes at universities, sometimes for free. In some states, a high school senior can attend the local public university at the local school districts expense. High School Equivalency/ Proficiency Test A few states have a system whereby you take a test. If you pass it, you get a high school diploma, no questions asked. You either pass their test or you don't. You can take it if you're under 18 and get high school over with to go to college or if you're an adult who wants a high school diploma. Go to your local GED Center and ask what's available locally to get a high school diploma. doe.nv.gov/statetesting/hsprofexam.html, nevada.en.wikipedia.org/wiki/high_school_proficiency_assessment ets.org, general testing website. k12.nj.us/gems/counseling/hspaguideenglish.pdf, new jersey. lkwdpl.org/gr4test, ohio proficiency practice test. mi.gov/mde, michigan educational assessment program (meap), michigan. state.nj.us/njded/assessment/hs, new jersey.
