

ALBUQUERQUES OLD TOWN - A walk through Old Town Albuquerque evokes a special brand of New Mexican enchantment. You'll find adobe buildings as old as the city itself, modern museums for science and art, and shops filled with uniquely New Mexican arts, crafts, and gifts. Its nooks and crannies and crooked little lanes will make you wish you lived here. If you have kids in tow, there's a science center just for them, as well as plenty to explore outdoors at the Albuquerque BioPark. It's an outing for the curious, for the romantic, for the hungry, and for the adventurous. Expect to be enchanted! AUTHOR - Robyn Harrison transplanted to New Mexico a dozen years ago and loves showing her adopted state to others. She has written extensively for New Mexico Magazine and her small-town newspaper, and works in the tourism industry as a festival coordinator. Though she roams the world seeking adventure, she's always happy to return to her desert home 70 miles south of Albuquerque.
